

Lodge and Chapter records in English and Welsh Record Offices

The scope of the survey

This survey of lodge and chapter records held in record offices in England and Wales was undertaken in July and August 2010.

It searched:

- A2A (Access to Archives – the catalogue of records held in record offices around the country hosted by the National Archives)
- the websites of individual record offices
- National Register of Archives - the lists of accessions made by local record offices and notified to the National Archives.
- And where the information from above sources was unclear, made direct enquiry to the office in question.

The search was of county, unitary and London Borough record offices, of the national deposit libraries (all of whom hold manuscript collections), of crown dependencies (Isle of Man etc) and selected private bodies on A2A, (only one of which, the Yorkshire Archaeological Society, bore fruit). Searches were made using the terms 'Freemason' and 'Masonic'.

The survey lists records created by lodges and chapters in the course of their activities: minute books, financial records, membership records and the like. In most cases these are the surviving records of still-active lodges and chapters. There are only a handful of records of non-active ('erased') lodges and chapters, and few examples of individual or stray documents. The survey has not included references to provincial administration or to other masonic orders such as the Rose Croix or Mark Masonry. It does not include references to records, such as wills or property deeds, that mention individuals who identify themselves as freemasons. It does not include Quarter Sessions records, which are the subject of a separate, contemporaneous survey.

The arrangement of the survey

The survey is arranged by Masonic province. In broad terms Masonic provinces are co-terminus with pre-1974 county boundaries and pre-1965 London boundaries. Thus, for example, Sheffield is in the county and province of West Yorkshire; Birmingham in Warwickshire, and Wolverhampton in Staffordshire. There are exceptions: Bristol is a province in its own right, and is not in Gloucestershire; the Masonic province of Sussex includes both counties of East and West Sussex; the counties of Kent and of Lancashire are both split into Masonic provinces of East Kent and West Kent and of East Lancashire and West Lancashire. Masonically Wales is split into north, west, south and Monmouthshire and these provinces cross ancient and modern county boundaries. In the London area the arrangements are less clear-cut, as masonic arrangements do not follow modern, or older administrative boundaries. Lodges that meet within five miles of Charing Cross will be in London; those between five and ten miles of Charing Cross could be in London or the neighbouring province (Kent, Surrey, Middlesex, Hertfordshire or Essex as appropriate) and those farther than ten mile from Charing Cross will be in the neighbouring province. Very often, this means that lodges in modern inner-London are in London, and those in outer-London are in the neighbouring county.

Where a record office covers more than one province, as, for example, does Cambridgeshire and Huntingdon, its holdings have been listed against both provinces unless it has been possible to establish the meeting place and so the masonic province of the lodge or chapter in question.

Using the survey

The survey gives the name, address and contact details for each record office within each province and then information on the records they hold. There are three pieces of information about the record: its title; its covering dates and its reference number. The title is generally the name of the lodge or chapter and its number in the masonic numbering arrangement. For most entries, the number is the one in the current numbering system. This arrangement has been in place since 1863. Lodges that were established before this date could have been assigned multiple numbers over time (reflecting the periodic reordering of the numbering scheme). Lane's Masonic Records (<http://www.hrionline.ac.uk/lane/>) lists all previous numbering arrangements. Lodges numbered higher than 1000 are unaffected. The letters SN (for Serial (but sometimes seniority) Number) prefix some lodge numbers. This is an alternative numbering system devised to give early lodges that came and went before the 1863 arrangement a unique number. Most of the lodges identified in this way in the list below have been erased.

The covering dates reflect the earliest and latest date for which there is information – there might be gaps between these dates for which there is no material.

The reference number is the number assigned to the item by the record office. It is this reference that will be needed to order the record when visiting the record office.

The web link will take the researcher to the web page for the source of the information. Some of the links might have to be cut and pasted to make them work. Some will take the viewer to a detailed description and some to a summary list. Note that some web pages might not endure over time.

Using the records

Researchers should note that in almost all instances the records listed will have been deposited on loan at the record office, i.e. they remain the property of the lodge or chapter, and that there are likely to be restrictions placed on access to them. In general, researchers will not be able to see records concerning living people. In some instances the terms of access are given on the web pages.

Prospective researchers are advised to contact the record office in advance of any visit; to allow more time than they expect and to take a pencil with which to make notes.
